New Corporation Developing Industries For Mississippians

A new corporation, Mississippi Industries, Inc., is developing new industries in Mississippi and creating more jobs chiefly by using Mississippi raw materials, Mississippi labor, Mississippi financing and Mississippi management. The corporation works with local communities who want new industries and have raw materials which can be converted into marketable products. Already the corporation has developed or acquired seven industries in the state. Warren Hood, president, said other enterprises will be announced soon. Mississippi Industries, Inc., is now manufacturing or preparing to manufacture roof deck material, roofing, tile, brick, charcoal, pellets, household fertilizer, ethical phar-maceuticals, butane and gasoline tanks. Mr. Hood, with other partners, also operates lumber mills, a wood preservative plant, and plants making cartons, bags, and corrugated containers. Mississippi Industries, Inc., invites representatives of local communities to discuss new ideas for industries. The offices are located in the Warren Hood Building, Woodrow Wilson Drive, Jackson. Governor Ross Barnett recently cited Mr. Hood in a public statement for "distinguished service" to the state's industrial development. Former Governor White said Mississippians must plan to develop "our own industries" as well as seek outside industry.

Shade Trees Should Be Well Watered

Shade trees should be well supplied with water during summer drought periods. This is of vital importance to recently planted trees, and is beneficial to those of any age. Ordinary lawn sprinkling will not suffice for trees that stand in the turf area. The grass plants absorb nearly all of the water generally applied in sprinkling and practically none soaks more than one or two inches into the soil. During dry, hot weather trees should be watered at intervals of about seven to ten days. More frequent watering is required in sandy, well drained soil than in clay.

The 1961-62 migratory waterfowl hunting seasons were announced today by John F. Camp, Jr., executive director of the Mississippi Game and Fish Commission.

Dates were selected by the Game and Fish Commission within framework of regulations fixed recently by the Fish and Wildlife Service.

Duck and coot seasons are as follows: December 1 through December 30, 1961, both dates inclusive. Hunting will be allowed from sunrise to sunset with the exception of opening day when hunting will begin at 12 noon and continue to sunset.

The season on Canvasback ducks and Redhead is closed.

Bag limits for ducks are two per day and four in possession with the exception of Wood Duck and Hooded Merganser, both having a one per day bag and possession limit.

Coot limit is six per day and six in possession.

November 10 through January 8, 1962 (both dates inclusive) are the dates for the goose hunting season. This 60-day season carries a bag limit of five Geese per day and five in possession and not to include more than two Canadian Geese and two White Fronted Geese or one of each.

Camp said that the reduced season and bag limits on ducks and coots and the closed season on canvasback and redheads were necessitated by poor reproduction on breeding grounds because of extreme drought conditions.

Jasper Faucetta and his two sons, A. J. and Jasper, Jr., really caught a big one Monday night, fishing from the Highway bridge. They landed a 30-pound Red Fish, and that's some fish. They didn't get a picture of it because they were too anxious to clean the big fellow and put it away in the freezer.

Bait has been the problem with fishermen the past couple of weeks. There has been practically no shrimp to be found, either dead or live. Horace Farr who catches his own live bait says it's really been tough. Most fishing camps have been completely out.

A few mackerel have been caught and fishing for them should be along the R.R. bridge. Raoul Telhiard, a good one for catching mackerel, says small mullet and croakers are the best bait. He should know — he has caught many of them.

For those who don't know — Spanish Mackerel (Bay Mackerel), spotted mackerel are especially caught in the open Gulf and Bay and are a very game fighter when hooked. They usually travel in schools and are caught by still fishing and bait casting. They are caught the year — are a common food.

Black Bass are being caught in the marshes. Kids really get a kick out of them.

Ed Albert of Glenwood Harbor likes his fishing and golf — he does both at the least provincial. Ferris Tate of Piquette, Mitch Mitchell and Joe Kern made a nice catch of fish last week, including a 4 ft. tarpon.

Bob Fleming and brother with Brian Ladner caught the limit of fresh water fish the other day. They were fly fishing.

Speaking of green front and perch they are being caught most anywhere up Pearl River way especially on the Louisiana side.

Dec. Elliott and August Rauxel got the limit last Saturday. Bobby Fayard and Jack Garriga caught their share, also.

A nice place to eat after fishing or any time is the Broadview Restaurant on Hwy. 90 which is under the management of Bob Servique. Dick Daley is in charge of the bar. Enough said. The building was recently remodeled by August Rauxel and the service is excellent. Sea food is a specialty.

The Haggerty children will invade the Bay next week, all 11 of them with mother and dad. Fishing, swimming and crabbing will be the order of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hoffman and two other couples from New Orleans spent the weekend at Bloxi. A grand time was reported by all.

Glad to hear that our old fishing partner, C. C. McDonald, Sr., will take up fly fishing again. Don't know what you've been missing, Mac! They are at their best right now.

"Gilly" Gilmore is having his boat fixed up. Look out fish. He's really going in for fly fishing.

Saw our old friend Goody Treut yesterday. He is now at Pensacola, Fla., and was on his vacation here. Couldn't do anything but visit this time, said Goody.

The first nine holes at Pass Christian Isles Golf course are in top shape. The new greens are a dream and according to Pro Dick Tarleton the back nine holes are coming along nicely. Golfing is a wonderful sport and will cure most any ails. Better try it. Dick gives lessons any old time.

Fred Garner says he hasn't done much fishing lately — but he is raring to go. Think he's waiting for the "cool of the evening."

Most soft crabs have gotten out of the habit of going. There are still a few being caught. They shed the year around, if you don't know it.

Al K'neston has a nice selection of all kinds of fishing tackle at his barber shop. As a fisherman he is a good talker, but really he gets his share of fish.

State Forester Jack Holman recommends Forestry Bank with Bank's director, Russell E. Hobgood.

State Forester Jack Holman and Russell E. Hobgood, director of the Forestry Bank, discuss the forestry development program of Mississippi with emphasis on the Forestry Bank, sponsored by Governor Ross R. Barnett and created by the 1960 legislature, for the purpose of making available funds for forestry development on the 100,000 acres of the landowners throughout Mississippi.

State Forester Holman stated that he feels Mississippi Forestry Bank program is a vital part of our state forestry program and certainly one of the most important phases of the Forestry Commission activities.

"We believe that the opportunities provided by the Forestry Bank will enable many of our small landowners to put their investment in land into top production and yield cash income which otherwise would be lost."

The Forestry Bank program was established to help our small landowners themselves, therefore we welcome any constructive suggestions as to how we may serve you better." State Forester Holman stated that he would assure landowners "top priority" in the handling of their Forestry Bank application.

Mr. Hobgood reminded the small landowners that the 1960 legislature, recognizing the states vast potential timber resource, set for the necessity of full cooperation between the Forestry Commission and Forestry Bank, in the Forestry Bank Act of 1960, with the realization that the forestry trained staff and personnel of the Commission, and financing through the Forestry Bank could assure projected future of the state timber resources.

Mr. Hobgood stated the Forestry Bank program was progressing rapidly, and expressed appreciation for the interest and cooperation of State Forester Holman, in the Forestry Bank development program, stating that Mr. Holman, with his forestry background, experience, and business ability, could give Mississippi a number one position in the field of forestry.

The 1960 Census of Mississippi was 2,187,141.

LADNER TO HEAD ARTHRITIS CAMPAIGN

Heber Ladner has accepted the chairmanship of the state fund campaign for the Mississippi Chapter of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, November is Arthritis Campaign Month.

Mr. Ladner is a native of Mississippi and has had broad service in community activities. He was educated at Millsaps

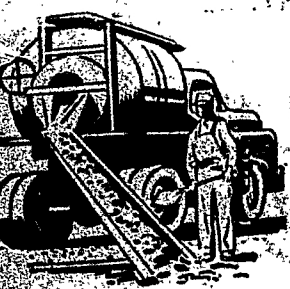

College and Duke University. He has been farmer, teacher, public official, member of the House of Representatives from Pearl River County and has served as Secretary of State since 1948. He is familiar with all phases of Mississippi's social and economic problems.

Said Mr. Ladner, "I was amazed to discover that we had in the State of Mississippi over 135,000 victims of this painful debilitating disease. I found that more farmers suffer from arthritis than people in any other occupation—that 14% of all farm workers have arthritis. Upon study of the problem, I realize what it has meant economically and socially to our people, and this was probably the main reason I accepted the grave responsibility of campaign chairman for the Mississippi Chapter for 1961—and while the problem is grave in Mississippi, the hope that is offered through proper treatment, is stimulating—to think that 7 out of 10 arthritics can be rehabilitated."

$135,000 is going to be our state goal—$1.00 for every arthritic. The beneficiary could be you and your family."

Leslie Dedeaux Named Conservation Farmer Of 1961 in Hancock

Leslie Dedeaux has been named Hancock County's most outstanding Soil Conservation Farmer of 1961.

O. O. Swords, County Agent said Leslie Dedeaux was named this week for the annual award sponsored jointly by the Mississippi Wildlife Federation and the Sears-Roebuck Foundation. Mr. Dedeaux will compete with top nominees from other counties for one of five Regional awards. Top Conservation Farmer for the state will be chosen from Regional winners.

"Conserving the soil is just a matter of using and treating each acre wisely," Mr. Swords said. Today the farmer cannot afford waste. He must make every acre do the very best job possible.

The selection of Mr. Dedeaux as the top Soil Conservation Farmer in the county was based on the Conservation job done from July 1960 to June 30, 1961. Some of his accomplishments are:

Cover cropping, 22 acres; crop residue use, 22 acres; conservation rotation, 19 acres; pasture planting, 10 acres; proper grazing, 10 acres; rotation planting, 38 acres; tree planting, 1,000 acres; and fish pond improvement, 1 acre.

The Conservation Contest will continue this year. It began July 1, and will close June 30, 1962.

Lots Of Work In August To Keep Gardener Busy

Maintenance of established plants is all-important in the August heat. Such maintenance involves watering, mulching, and with some plants, spraying for red spider mite or fungus trouble. The planting of seeds and bulbs is at a minimum in August but will increase in cooler September weather. If rainfall is scarce, keep plant well soaked.

RYD To Sponsor City-Wide Inspirational Program August 23

A special inspirational program combined with entertainment and other attractions is planned for interested young people of Bay St. Louis. The Protestant Youth Organization is sponsoring the city-wide rally Monday, August 23rd, at 7:30 p.m. Group singing, inspirational message, youth fellowship and recreation will be presented.

The meeting will be conducted in the First Baptist Church. "All interested young people are invited to participate," the host pastor stated.

Of the 388,427,621 trees planted and distributed in the South by pulp and paper companies and pulpwood suppliers during the 1960-61 season, 241,398,221 trees, or 62 per cent, were produced in 19 company-owned nurseries in the region.

Two Reasons Why Greenville Moved To Greenville

Two reasons why Greenville moved to Greenville are: 1. The location of Greenville is in a better climate than the old Greenville. 2. The location of Greenville is in a better location than the old Greenville. Greenville was our first stop and we ended by coming back there. The community was and continues to be excellent.

Independent business men supplying pulpwood to pulp and paper mills planted during the 1960-61 season a total of 9,792,000 for seedlings in 11 Southern states.

Make Highways In State Safer

Another step has been taken to help make the highways in District 1 safer. Highway 80 through Pearl has been marked "no passing" from the traffic light at Whitfield Road to the traffic light at McLeaning Highway. The Down through the years the Association has done much to strengthen soil conservation district. One important effort resulted last year in action by the State Legislature to provide farmer representation on the State Soil Conservation Committee.

The current major objective of the Association is to procure funds through the State legislature to employ a full time secretary for the State Soil Conservation Committee. "This is sorely needed," Mr. Rester said, "to help the districts carry on the business of administering the more than six million dollar soil and water conservation program in the State."

Patrol Inspection Robert Burton stated, "We hope that this will materially reduce the frequency of wreck in Rankin County. That is a very dangerous section of highway. There is almost unlimited access to the road for over a mile. The no-passing zone will

SOYBEAN STUDY SHOWS PRACTICES THAT BOOST YIELD

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. — Factors that affect soybean yields on Delta farms have been studied in a survey by USDA and Delta Branch Experiment Station economists. They found, according to a report published in the August issue of Mississippi Farm Research, that planned rotations, proper planting dates, and recommended varieties were most important in producing high yields.

Five-two percent of farmers reporting high yields followed planned rotations and 21% more had rotations of some sort. On the other hand, only 17% of the farmers with low yields followed definite rotations, with 77% more using rotations on a limited basis.

Of the farmers reporting high yields, 90% planted within 10 days of May 10 (the recommended planting date). Only 53% reporting low yields planted during this period. As a general rule, farmers having low yields tended to plant earlier than the dates which research has shown to be best.

Recommended varieties were used by 85% of the farmers with high yields and 75% of those with low yields. New varieties developed by the USDA and the Experiment Station have increased yields materially.

Over the years, little difference was noted in average yields on clay, loam or sandy soils. Yield variability among seasons, however, was much higher on sandy soils than clay. One farmer reported a low of 8 bushels per acre on sandy soils during a dry year and 42 bushels per acres on the same soils for a wet year.

No single operation or combination of operations involved in a seedbed preparation, planting and cultivation seemed to have any relationship to yield in results reported from this study.

The no-passing zone lines were applied Monday by the Highway Department. Close cooperation by the Highway Department and the Mississippi Highway Patrol helps to make the roads much safer for drivers.

Tupelo Tire Company Announces Expansion

Pennsylvania Tire Company, one of Tupo's youngest major industries, has announced plans to expand its operations in that city. The board of directors of the company, with headquarters in Mansfield, Ohio, plans to apply to the Lee County board of supervisors for a BAWI bond issue to finance the expansion. Officials said the addition will be approximately 225 feet by 240 feet. Company President James H. Hoffman said, "The move will provide much-needed space for expansion of production and employment and will also provide space that will help stabilize winter production." The plant started operation in 1959 and expanded production in

Oil Industry Mark Growth

The petroleum industry registered a record year in Mississippi in 1960. The total value of all petroleum products harvested in the state last year was $176,338,000. Since the state's first crude oil production in 1939, the total value has amounted to in excess of $1.5 billion. The industry discovered 67,881,000 barrels of new crude reserves in 1960 for a net gain of 17,761,000 barrels and increasing the total of existing reserves.

E AND H BOND ELIGIBILITY BROADENED

Any investor, other than commercial banks, can now buy up to $10,000 per year (maturity value) of both Series E and Series H Savings Bonds, Andy J. Becker, Chairman of the County Savings Bonds Committee, says.

"This broadening of the eligibility of those who can buy U. S. Savings Bonds is a boon to organizations, clubs, groups—even businesses," he said. "This means that if these organizations or firms have money to invest they can buy U. S. Savings Bonds up to the annual limitation."

The Treasury broadened the eligibility in order to fill a gap in the Savings Bonds Program which was created by the discontinuance of sales of Series J and K Savings Bonds. Since that time, small investor group, other than individuals, have not had available to them any Government security with guaranteed protection against market fluctuations.

The Treasury has had a considerable demand for securities of this type from a large number of institutional groups such as fraternal, civic, service, patriotic and veteran organizations, eleemosynary institutions and local and state government bodies.

Series H Bonds - from which an interest check is received each 6 months for 10 years - is meeting the desires of many people who have retired or expect to soon.

Pulpwood Production

An increasingly profitable phase of the state's economy value of Mississippi's pulpwood harvest at 339,472,000 during 1960. Mississippi's share in the production of raw material for the pulp and paper industry was part of an all-time record pulpwood harvest for Dixie as a whole. An ever-expanding market means that Mississippi forest owners have a strong incentive to manage their woodlands with maximum efficiency.
